The Arran Malt – Machrie Moor Island Single Malt Whisky – 56.2% CS | Peated WHISKY –

Vinification

On the west coast of the Isla of Arran lies a windswept and mystical peat bog called Machrie Moor. Bronze Age stone circles and standing stones are strewn across its barren, undulating terrain. One of the stone circles is known as Fingal's Cauldron Seat, where sits a stone with a carved hole. The legendary warrior giant Fingal is said to have tethered his favourite dog Bran to this stone. This cask strength peated expression of the Arran Single Malt perfectly captures the rugged beauty and lore of the landscape. Unleash the legend that is Machrie Moor. Bottled at 56.2% vol. without chill filtration or added colouring.

Taste

Citrus notes with a background of peat and a puff of smoke immediately apparent. A robust dram with the typical orchard fruits of Arran coming to the fore over a layer of toasted brioche and red berries. Finish with citrus, smoke, chocolate, vanilla and coconut.
